The look. The feel.

Leather is a unique product of nature. Its very touch and feel triggers a relaxing sensation - and also raises the prospect of a trip to remember. Laying eyes on it is always a pleasure: its soft texture seems to gleam in the light. As a seat in your Audi, a piece of leather becomes synonymous with exclusive comfort.

No two pieces are alike – a fact which fits perfectly with the Audi exclusive philosophy. And needless to say, we pay great attention to ensuring that the pieces crafted for the interior of an Audi are perfectly coordinated. The seat leather used in an Audi is primarily crafted from the hides of bulls raised in Southern Europe. Thanks to delicate processing, including the use of vegetable tanning agents, its natural beauty is retained, resulting in the creation of a material that is hard-wearing, highly emotive and long-lasting.
Once tanned, the leather undergoes a refinement process. An ultra-thin varnish makes the leather much more resistant to wear.

Each piece of leather destined to appear in an Audi first has to pass over 30 different tests. Aspects such as the leather’s abrasion resistance, non-fade properties, shrinkage behaviour, resistance to bending, tensile strength, emissions and burning behaviour are determined in laboratory tests. Only when all tests have been passed is it deemed suitable for use in seats and interior fittings.

The tests are conducted over the course of a year and are ultimately designed to guarantee the remarkable sensation of opening the door of your Audi to the inspiring appearance and feel of leather – a thrill that never fades over time.

This sensation can be heightened even further should you opt for leather fittings from Audi exclusive. Simply let your fantasy run wild. It’s possible, for example, to have the steering wheel covered in a different colour leather to that used on the seats – or even only parts of the seats. Select the colour of your dreams from the huge range of leather colours available. Furthermore, you are also free to choose the colour of the contrast stitching, the carpet, the floor mat piping or the seatbelts. If you opt for a seat cover made from a combination of Alcantara and leather, we also offer a large range of colours. Add a completely individual touch of character to your Audi.

With a huge passion for detail, the look of the stitching on Audi exclusive steering wheels is completed by hand.

The leather for the seats and interior fittings is carefully examined and tested – to add that immaculate touch of beauty to your Audi.

The range of interior colours is almost unlimited. You can even select your own contrast stitching.

Leather
Woods and trims

Designed by nature.

Crafted with the utmost precision.

Just to make your dream come true.

Of all the materials known to man, only wood can lend such a unique atmosphere. When you rub your fingers along a fine-pored inlay, you can immediately sense the exclusivity, sophisticated quality and – above all – the time and effort needed to create an object of such beauty.

As a matter of principle, Audi refrains from using tropical wood, even that which was grown on a plantation. Instead, it relies on selected woods that perfectly emphasise the respective character of the vehicle. The range of woods used extends from classic oak to striking varieties of myrtle burr or Tamo wood, or even black piano finish. The benefit to you: more exclusivity and a huge selection. In addition to the various types of wood, you can also choose between highly unusual colours and grains.

One such grain is the open-pored Tamo wood in dark brown natural. It grows in Japan and Russia, and offers a striking wave pattern – a look that perfectly comes to the fore in an inlay. The texture of the wood can be both seen and felt. This transforms the interior into a uniquely tranquil zone with a comfortable atmosphere.

Every tree is unique – just like the inlay it is used to create. This means that your Audi not only makes a personal statement, but is also one of a kind.
Thanks to their striking design, the trims in aluminium/Beaufort wood black are incredibly eye-catching.

The thin layers of veneer for the inlays are peeled from trunks and root burrs. To ensure the individual parts match, a set of fittings for a vehicle generally comes from a single burr or trunk.

Needless to say, it is crucial that the cutting process takes account of the special features of the vehicle’s interior. The shape of the centre console presents a particular challenge – one that has to be overcome each time anew. Its design varies from model to model and requires special recesses, depending on the equipment. The manufacturing process involves a delicate symbiosis between craftsmanship and machining. Some steps – such as milling – use both methods, whereas others are performed entirely manually.

Sometimes even more production steps prove necessary, for example when creating the new aluminium/Beaufort wood black. To fabricate this inlay, five thin layers of wood veneer and a 0.4-mm layer of aluminium are glued together to create a 5-mm-thick block. Several of these blocks are then bonded and cut vertically, leading to the emergence of this exciting blend of black wood and striking aluminium.

The finished product is then subjected to a stringent quality inspection. Ultraviolet light is used to check for any cracks or pockets and to verify that the paint is up to standard. This is how Audi ensures outstanding quality, meaning you get to enjoy a uniform grain, an even colouration and the gratifying feeling of owning an exceptionally unique vehicle – your Audi.
The world is awash with colour.

Choose your favourite.

The golden hue of a sunset, the red of a fine wine, the green of an emerald ring – all of these colours are available for your Audi’s paint finish. As well as practically every other colour imaginable – just bring a sample of your ideal colour to your Audi partner.

Naturally, we already have a huge selection of existing paint finish colours for you to choose from. Simply select your favourites from nearly 100 colour tones. How about the exquisite Saddle Brown, pearl effect, a hue that bestows every vehicle with a special sense of presence? Or maybe you’d prefer the impressive Palace Blue, pearl effect, a colour reminiscent of wide open spaces and freedom?

No matter which type of paint finish you ultimately choose, you can rest assured that the most stringent manufacturing quality standards are always applied. The desired tone is initially mixed from organic and inorganic colour pigments. Organic pigments ensure radiance and vibrancy, whereas inorganic pigments are extremely age-resistant. This interplay guarantees that your paint finish retains long-lasting colour intensity.

The pigments in the base colours are then individually dispersed in a binding agent to create pastes. The final colour tone emerges by mixing these various colour pigment pastes. The fascinating look of a metallic paint finish is achieved by adding metal flakes to the paint. These flakes are usually made of aluminium, but brass is sometimes also used. When creating a metallic paint finish, great attention has to be paid to ensuring that the metal flakes don’t fracture, meaning that the whole process has to be performed very carefully and gently. This is further proof of the exacting standards synonymous with Audi exclusive.
Colours and paint finishes

An Audi paint finish consists of four layers which, when combined, are not even as thick as a human hair. The first priming coat protects the body against rust and other signs of ageing. When applying this coat, the vehicle is pulled through the ‘dip tank’ as it rotates, thereby ensuring that every hollow is covered and no millimetre escapes. Once the priming has hardened, it is cleaned with emu feathers. These rotating feathers are used to carefully brush the body down and remove each and every speck of dust.

The second layer of paint is then applied. This is known as the filler coat. This procedure evens out any irregular spots and includes an elastic component to ensure that paint does not chip off should the vehicle ever be hit by a stone, for example.

The third layer is the actual visible colour. While the body receives a coat of your individually mixed colour in the dip tank, coatings are applied with a paint-spraying gun to smaller parts, like the exterior mirror or the fuel tank cap.

The fourth layer is a clear protective coating that hardens at 140 °C in just half an hour. It protects against UV rays and lends the paint finish its shine and intensity of colour. That way you can enjoy your favourite colour for as long as possible, whether it’s sunny yellow, wine red or emerald green.
Many steps in the production process require a particularly fine tool: the human hand.

Audi exclusive’s stitching pattern is created manually with a needle.

People always have one advantage over machines: sensitivity. Of course, a robot can also sew a delicate leather seam, but it won’t comprehend what it’s doing. One strong motivation at Audi is that we identify with our work – or, to put it differently, we take pride in our own work. One example is the Audi exclusive steering wheel.

You choose a type of wood, as well as a colour for the leather and the contrast stitching. It’s only then that we produce the steering wheel for you and your car. During the process, the wood is re-sanded and polished by hand. The leather seams are also mostly hand-stitched, creating Audi exclusive’s specific stitching pattern.

Quality control is also partially conducted by hand. Of course, we also rely on modern measuring technologies to ensure that the coat of paint is flawless, for example. But if you want to know if the leather-covered centre console is perfectly mounted, you can feel it for yourself with your own hands.
“Everything begins with a vision.”

How Audi and Audi exclusive designs come into being.

The designers accomplish both by appealing to the human senses. “After all, we make cars for human beings. Real human beings, not imaginary customers.” And according to Krömke, people recognize good work right away. That’s why the value and authenticity of every detail is important. “You have to respect nature.”

That’s especially apparent in the seat leather. One particularly elegant variant comes from the Italian luxury design house Poltrona Frau. Thanks to special dyeing methods, this leather retains the greatest possible and natural beauty and purity. The colour Agatha cognac, with its perceptibly natural character, compliments the leather perfectly. Another highlight from Audi exclusive is woven, black fine Nappa leather, which until now was only used for show cars. The finest leather strips were woven to form a seat track. The process had to meet the highest standards for quality: careful attention had to be paid to the structure of the raw material, and a special machine was even developed for the production. The effort paid off: the woven seat track made a sporty impression and created an exciting contrast with the smooth leather side bolsters. At the same time, the durability and comfort of the leather was also improved.

Just as Audi’s leather tanning is nearly chromium-free, beginning recently, the surface of its wood is also less treated. That way, the natural textures stay much more apparent – you can feel every pore, just like you can always smell the scent of the leather in the car’s interior. Driving an Audi should be a sensual experience. One thing that the spirit of the brand conveys: the motivation to constantly achieve the best possible result. You can only accomplish that as a team, which then translates this motivation into the end product. “It’s not enough for one part to be perfect – all of the parts in combination, and their unity, are what create something special.”
“I find it really exciting to try new things.”

Focus on Audi exclusive customers: Karl-Ludwig and Anita Z.

Karl-Ludwig Z. took a rather surprising path to becoming an Audi driver: “Back then, one of my colleagues had an A4 TDI, and on the Autobahn, it easily outpaced the car I had – even though I had more horsepower and mine wasn’t a diesel! After that, I wanted to know what was so special about Audi. And since then – that’s what my wife and I drive. It gives me a rush every time I get behind the wheel.”

Karl-Ludwig Z. studied to become a mathematician. Together with his wife Anita and a partner, he runs a mid-sized company providing services to the industrial sector. You could say that the passion for detail and perfection runs in his blood. “Yes, that’s true. People always say that about mathematicians – it’s one of our quirks. That’s why I like to drive RS models so much. Their technology is fine-tuned – and exciting. But at the same time, they’re like the wolf in sheep’s clothing. Insiders know what’s under the hood, but at the same time, it’s understated.

Anita Z. places more value on the exterior: “I find it really exciting to try new things. Over and over again, that’s why I pay attention to the design. When you’ve been doing it for a while, you get an eye for details. That’s why I can give my husband advice about wheel rim size or paint colour – I can tell what looks good better than he can.”

Karl-Ludwig Z. also has other reasons for his choice of exterior colour. He prefers grey tones and chooses them from Audi exclusive’s wide range of colour options based on his personal taste. “I drive really long distances. After a long journey, the car naturally looks a little different. Grey is very forgiving.”

Although the Z. couple has already outfitted several cars with Audi exclusive features, their anticipation never wanes – or their enthusiasm. Will the car really look the way they imagined it? They’ve always been impressed thus far.

Karl-Ludwig Z. says: “My first Audi was an A6, and I moved relatively quickly to the S and RS models.” Anita Z.: “For me it was the RS8. The sound of the motor captivated me. Just the way it roared! I had to have it.” The only problem was that she was put off by the dark sideblade. Her Audi partner let her know about Audi exclusive and the Audi exclusive studio in Neckarsulm. There, the black sideblade was turned into a grey one, and the couple were turned into loyal customers.

First they enhanced their vehicles with the optics package, then with individual paint. The couple came to Neckarsulm with a few ideas in mind and were advised further. There, on the monitor of the Audi exclusive Car Configurator, they could also see the new black-red interior features of their TT RS. “We always find bold colour combinations here that we wouldn’t think of ourselves.”

You stick with it once you’ve started with it – just like at Audi. From the first Audi exclusive car to the one we have now.”
Focus on Audi exclusive customers: Andreas Anthamatten

His first Audi was a used Audi R8 quattro. Being Swiss, that was just the right choice for Andreas Anthamatten. "Mountains, snow, narrow passes – one simply has a better feeling with a quattro. I was impressed with Audi from the beginning. Then individualised every single one of my next twelve Audi models with Audi exclusive."

"Together with my wife, we’re now on our 13th Audi – the R8 GT Spyder. And number 13 is definitely a lucky number in this case," he says, his face radiant. The sports car, fully individualised with Audi exclusive, is his pride and joy. Just for the interview and photoshoot, he and a friend spent half a day polishing his Misano Red dream car to a high gloss.

His attention to detail really stands out: whether in his free time or when working as a financial advisor at a Zurich investment firm. "Audi exclusive is a reward for my time-consuming job. At the same time, it’s important for my work. When I’ve got to cover long distances, for example, the 5-piece R8 luggage set from Audi exclusive proves to be extremely practical. I also want to individualise my future Audi models. For me, Audi exclusive has brought about a real improvement in my quality of life."

Something else that Andreas Anthamatten takes seriously is individuality. You see it in his car’s every detail: the black leather upholstery harmoniously matches the control elements, seat trim, vents and sill covers – all in black leather with contrast stitching in crimson red. To go with that, a carbon cover for the centre console, an additional titanium-look wheel set with sport tyres and a few more features. Not to mention the carbon door sills with illuminated aluminium inset, inscribed on the driver’s side with the words "Andy’s R8 GT" – the car is individualised through and through. "The service representatives at Audi know that when I’m buying a new car, I’m really enthusiastic about everything from Audi exclusive." Even equipment that isn’t yet available. For example, the sport seats he picked out, which don’t come with a stitched R8 GT logo as standard. "But I really, really wanted that. And quattro GmbH made it possible for my R8 logo to be very finely and precisely stitched into the seats."

When asked who has the pleasure of riding with him in his Audi R8 GT Spyder, his six-year-old daughter chimed in: “My mum.” Andreas Anthamatten doesn’t just have an exceptional vehicle. He also has an exceptionally lovely family.

"For me, Audi exclusive has brought about a real improvement in my quality of life."
